

14th July, 2023

The current global contexts create new challenges for the different economic sectors, including agriculture. New technologies associated with the digital transition can play an important role here. In this perspective, it is important to open spaces for discussion on these fields. In view of these frameworks, we invite colleagues and students to share their research on these topics at this conference.

more